Nationalism and history-writing in Europe

ナショナル・ヒストリーを問い直す

24-27 September (09.00-16.30)

※ 9月開講ですが秋学期扱いとして、内定生の参加を認めます。

This course considers the engagement between nationalism and history-writing in different European contexts. Students will be able to consider some key issues in European national historiographical traditions through examples drawn from British, German, Romanian, and Russian case-studies. They will analyse these different contexts to consider the varied ways in which ideas about national history have been developed and mobilised politically and culturally in shifting contexts.
